Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 1-4,7-15,18-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Henderson (4766746).

Henderson shows a central controller 10, an operator controller 14 and an access controller 12. The central controller can send update data to the operator controller and the operator can send access request codes to the access controller. Henderson, however, can also send an identity structure to the access controller using the operator controller as a virtual network as claimed. See col. 17 lines 15+. Henderson can pass update codes to a specific access controller; therefore the identity structure must include an application template (the identity of the access controller to be updated) and configuration data that the access controller uses to update itself.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2635

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

2. Claims 5,6,16,17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Henderson (4766746).

The identity structure is encrypted see col. 8 lines 34+, however Henderson does not expressly state who can and cannot decrypt the identity structure. It is well known in the art that using an encryption scheme that only the intended recipient can decrypt is very secure method of communicating important security data. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have used encrypted data such that only the intended recipient can decrypt the data to improve security in the system.
